ECA is a one-of-a-kind resource to a highly specialized, essential set of construction crafts.

Since 1976, ECA has represented contractors in the water, sewer and storm drain industries. But, what exactly do you get in an ECA membership? This month I'll focus on our website.

On the Spot Information

Along with ECA Magazine's in depth coverage of industry issues, your association maintains a website where on-the-spot information and resources are available on a wealth of issues. These are the primary online features we encourage members to access at any time via www.ecasocal.org. In addition to our standing resources, we periodically send out ECA Magazine advertising promotions so that our members have a regular opportunity to promote their businesses to other ECA Members. You can access our online advertising form at any time by clicking:

Use your association membership throughout your normal course of business to access highly skilled contractors, industry standard products, and expert services.

ECA members offer a well-established network of professionals. Lawyers, accountants, financial services, and equipment suppliers have a wealth of knowledge and experience. For more information visit: <https://www.ecasocal.org> Δ
